Our logo

We developed a modern, font-based logo to communicate a forward-thinking concept. With its dynamic African feel, it sets Nelson Mandela University apart from its competition. The use of the circle and the triangle in the name creates a playful feel while alluding to ingenuity and creativity - two vital ingredients for change.

The colour palette was specifically chosen to reflect the University values and to add gravitas to the logo. We opted for blue, as it symbolises heritage, strength and trustworthiness. The bright yellow was chosen to add approachability, freshness and warmth.

Gradeplegtigheid is 'n belangrike mylpaal in die lewe. Dit is die hoogtepunt van 'n akademiese reis wat jou ambisie, vasberadenheid, toewyding, deursettingsvermoë en veeleisende werk weerspieël. Ons weet dat hierdie reis nie joune alleen is nie, aangesien baie mense saam met jou gereis het, jou vriende, jou lektore, toesighouers, mentors en jou familie. Hulle het finansieel in jou belê, jou studies gelei en jou aangemoedig om voort te gaan. Maar bowenal het hulle geglo in jou vermoë om sukses te behaal en hierdie droom om te gradueer te bereik.

Vandag vier ons nie net wat jy bereik het nie, maar ook dit wat dit vorentoe beloof in terme van jou potensiaal as 'n gegradueerde en alumnus van die Nelson Mandela Universiteit. Jou geleerdheid is jou paspoort na die toekoms – en die toekomshoop van ons land en kontinent. Inderdaad, onderwys is die grondslag vir 'n beter wêreld. Of soos Nelson Mandela dit so welsprekend gestel het:

“Onderwys is die magtigste wapen waarmee jy die wêreld kan verander.”

Vandag is jou vreugde ook ons vreugde.

Ons salueer en loof jou prestasie en wens jou alle sukses toe vir jou toekomstige ondernemings, waar hulle jou ook al mag neem.

Veels geluk!

*Professor Sibongile Muthwa
Vice-Chancellor*

OUR CHANCELLOR, VICE-CHANCELLOR AND CHAIR OF COUNCIL

Meet Dr Geraldine Fraser-Moleketi, whose experience, commitment and heart for the continent's social and economic transformation are aligned with the goals of Nelson Mandela University.

Throughout her exemplary career, our Chancellor has worked for economic growth that is more sustainable. She has worked in inter-governmental structures, interacted with political leaders, business leaders and civil society, and has been involved in complex negotiations across different issues and sectors.

The titular head of our institution was previously Director of the United Nations Development Programme's (UNDP) Democratic Governance Group (DGP), based in New York, working across six regional centres in more than 100 countries.

Dr Fraser-Moleketi was Minister for Welfare and Population Development in South Africa's first democratic government and went on to serve as a member of the South African Parliament for three consecutive parliaments (1994 through September 2008).

Some of Chancellor's early achievements include participation in the multi-party negotiation process and as Deputy National Coordinator of the ANC's National Elections Commission ahead of the country's first democratic elections.

Our Chancellor serves on various boards, is a fellow of the Institute of Politics, Kennedy School of Government, at Harvard University, holds a master's degree in administration, and has received several awards, including the OP Dwivedi Public Service Award from the International Association of Schools and Institutes of Public Administration.

Professor Sibongile Muthwa is the Vice-Chancellor of Nelson Mandela University. Her second five-year term of office began in April this year.

Professor Muthwa holds a PhD from the School of Oriental and African Studies, University of London, and an MSc in Development Policy and Planning from London School of Economics and Political Science. The Vice-Chancellor has enjoyed a distinguished career both in South Africa, and internationally, working in both development and public sector institutions, as well as in academia. Between 2010 and 2017 she was the Deputy Vice-Chancellor for Institutional Support, now known as People and Operations, at Nelson Mandela University.

Professor Muthwa served as the Chairperson of Universities South Africa [USAf] a membership organisation representing all South Africa's universities, that promotes and facilitates optimum conditions for universities to operate effectively and contribute to social, cultural and economic development.

She further serves on the Presidential Human Resource Development Council. Prior to joining the University, she served as Director General of the Eastern Cape Provincial Government [2004 and 2010]. Upon her return to South Africa, before joining government, she was Director of the Fort Hare Institute of Government.

She is deeply committed to gender justice, social inclusion and active democratic participation, and accordingly serves on a number of Boards and advisory structures, including from 2014 as a Commissioner of the Financial and Fiscal Commission, and served as its Deputy Chairperson from 2017-2019.

The Nelson Mandela University Council appointed Ambassador Nozipho January-Bardill as Chairperson of Council, the institution's highest decision-making body, in October 2017. She is currently serving her second term.

Ambassador January-Bardill's appointment as Council Chair was momentous, as she was the University's first black African female to take up the position.

She is an independent non-executive director of Mercedes Benz SA, the MTN Foundation, and two NGOs, Tshwaranang Legal Services (for women who are victims of gender-based violence) and Phenduka Literacy (for under-educated primary school pupils in Alexandra Township). In 2021 she was appointed to the Board of Trustees of the United Nations Voluntary Fund for Technical Assistance and the Implementation of the Universal Periodic Report (UPR) in the office of the UN High Commissioner for Human Rights. Her own company Bardill and Associates advises companies on integrating race, gender and sustainable development into their business strategies and building cultures to end sexual harassment, bullying and GBV.

Ambassador January-Bardill served as SA's Ambassador to Switzerland, Lichtenstein and the Holy See as well as Deputy Director General, responsible for Human Resources and the Foreign Service Institute in the South African Department of Foreign Affairs. She was interim Chief of Staff and special advisor to UN Women and the UN Environmental Programme (UNEP) respectively.

Four years as Corporate Affairs Executive at MTN Group, the largest and most diverse mobile telecommunications company in Africa, exposed her to executive leadership in the private sector at home and on the continent, and the challenges of creating a human rights culture in business.

Ethical leadership and governance, social justice and sustainable development are central to her life and work.

WE ARE NELSON MANDELA UNIVERSITY

As a socially embedded African university in the service of society, we offer a range of life-changing educational experiences, impactful research and innovation, and transformative engagement.

These academic core missions are rooted in and informed by recent milestones in the University's history, such as the 2017 name change to Nelson Mandela University, the Vice-Chancellor's listening campaign, inaugural and Advancing Mandela addresses, and a transversal organisational redesign process.

We offer quality higher education to nearly 32 000 students across seven campuses, making us the largest university in the Eastern and Southern Cape.

What we offer

Nelson Mandela University is a comprehensive university that offers both general formative and professionally orientated academic programmes from certificate to doctoral level.

We have a strong track record in both fundamental and applied research, working extensively in partnership with business, industry, government, and civil society. The institution has 500 study programmes across seven faculties that are internationally recognised and accredited by the relevant professional bodies. State-of-the-art IT services include WiFi connectivity across all campuses and in numerous off-campus facilities, as well as advanced technological resources and digital aids geared to effective in-person and blended modes of learning and teaching.

Along with a first-class academic education, Nelson Mandela University provides students with a vibrant student life beyond the classroom.

Our campuses

Our seven campuses have a large, ever-increasing footprint, with six in Gqeberha and one in George.

Of these, four are in Summerstrand, one in Bird Street in Central, and one in Missionvale. Our North and South campuses in Summerstrand are located on an 840-hectare private nature reserve.

Our George Campus is on the Garden Route, midway between Nelson Mandela Bay and Cape Town. Set at the foot of the Outeniqua Mountains, our "sustainability" campus is where our ecological footprint meets business acumen for a sustainable future.

REASONS TO BE PROUD

Various ground-breaking projects, awards and achievements have given Nelson Mandela University and its staff and students reason to be proud, some of which are included below:

Winning designs

Architecture student Luzuko Funda won the annual national 2022 Corobrik Student Architecture Awards. He is the fourth winner from Mandela University over the past five years, keeping the tradition strong.

Spreading the Mandela brand

Social media is positively extending and entrenching the Mandela University brand as confirmed by the University's success as a winner of the International Digital Communication Awards.

Sharing the joys of this year's Autumn Graduation season, the institution's Communication and Marketing department substantially exposed the Mandela University brand into Africa and internationally to win the small budget campaign category.

Its social media posts were displayed over 15.5 million times to users (up by 112%) and generated over 1.9 million engagements (up by 348%) compared with 2022. Its video views grew by 678% to over 4.1 million.

Three of its Facebook videos had over 1.5 million impressions, with one reaching 4.7 million impressions and over 900 000 engagements, while one on Instagram had over a million impressions.

Science achievers

Professor Adams, who holds the DSI/NRF Research Chair for Shallow Water Ecosystems and is deputy director for the Institute for Coastal and Marine Research, is the winner of the DSI Distinguished Woman Researcher in Natural Science and Engineering.

Carla, a doctoral student in Geosciences, was awarded the DSI-Ndoni Mcunu Fellowship: Doctoral Award for her pioneering research on groundwater resources.

A medical school making a difference

Our programme to train MBChB graduates in Gqeberha is the first and only medical school in the western part of the province. Intentionally anchored in Missionvale to engender urban renewal and regeneration, it is set to make a tangible contribution to building capacity for accessible healthcare service delivery through its emphasis on primary health care.

Ocean Sciences: Growing the blue economy

Nelson Mandela University has embraced the United Nations declaration of the Decade of Ocean Science for Sustainable Development from 2021 to 2030.

With South Africa's coastline spanning approximately 3000km and bordered by three oceans, the University is perfectly placed to contribute to and benefit from this blue decade.

Nelson Mandela University has developed a range of ocean sciences education and training, research, innovation and engagement programmes to support the blue economy nationally and on the African continent. Nelson Mandela University was ranked as the top institution in South Africa for UN Sustainable Development Goal Four: Life Below Water in 2022.

Our overarching ocean sciences strategy is underpinned by the following objectives:

- Advancing inter- and transdisciplinary synergies to promote learning, teaching, research, innovation and engagement “where art meets science”
- Promoting social, economic, and environmental sustainability
- Developing and maintaining mutually beneficial and collaborative partnerships with civil society, industry, government, and other postschool educational institutions nationally and internationally
- Positioning the University to be a destination of choice for ocean sciences nationally and on the African continent.

Ocean Sciences awards

Nelson Mandela University has won five national and international infrastructure awards for the new extensions to its Ocean Sciences Campus in Summerstrand.

The University's new triple-storey E Block with its aesthetically appealing, dedicated research spaces, specialised laboratories and signature dive tank, received high praise from judges in four competitions recently.

Infrastructure services and space optimisation deputy director Graham Gouws said as the only higher education institution in SA with a dedicated ocean sciences campus, Mandela University was home to a range of ocean sciences education and training, research, innovation and engagement programmes.

“These awards speak to our commitment to advance our scientific contribution to ocean sciences globally by developing fit-for-purpose spaces that meet this need,” Gouws said.

The new R54m wing built from department of education funding is part of the University's commitment to the United Nations' sustainability development goals relating to the sea.

State-of-the-art Science Centre

The University's new Science Centre, on its Ocean Sciences Campus, will serve as a dynamic education hub catering to learners, students, scholars, academics and the wider public.

The state-of-the-art Centre, which was officially launched by the Minister of Higher Education and Training Professor Bonginkosi Emmanuel Nzimande on 15 March this year, was established as an expression of Nelson Mandela University's commitment as an engaged institution.

The R54-million building, funded by the Department of Higher Education and Training's Infrastructure Efficiency Grant, is dedicated to using its resources, platforms, students, and staff in pursuit of building a learning society that embraces social justice.

In short, the University is set on making science accessible to the public. It's here, in what is the most sophisticated digital dome of its kind in the country to date, that scientists will share complex concepts with the public, engage in discussions and host interactive exhibitions and conferences. The centrepiece, a 15-metre digital dome/auditorium, offers a unique immersive space for learning and visualising spatial models in an engaging and entertaining format. It is akin to an IMAX theatre, but on a grander scale, fully enveloping the viewer.

School learners who visit will enjoy a comprehensive tour, including a fully immersive show featuring videos showcasing topics such as life underwater or the potential for life in outer space.

Pioneering inclusive education with coding programme for the digital age

Mandela University is at the forefront of inclusive education and coding through its pioneering initiative, the Tangible Africa programme, which began in 2017 as a mobile app developed at the institution.

Computer Science student Byron Batteson's honours project has morphed into today's programme that transforming the educational landscape by empowering disadvantaged students to take up successful careers in coding.

In today's increasingly digital world, coding plays a central role in our lives, with the demand for online solutions, applications, and digital innovations skyrocketing. As the digital age advances, the role of software developers in shaping our future becomes indispensable.

Professor Jean Greyling, Head of the Department of Computing Sciences at Nelson Mandela University and the Tangible Africa Programme Founder, says: "While technologies like ChatGPT and AI are enhancing productivity, they will never replace the problem-solving abilities of skilled software developers."

He says software development is essential for a nation's innovation capacity, with many South African software companies exporting their products to Europe and America.

However, South Africa faces several challenges in promoting coding education. Over 16 000 schools lack computer labs, and many of the existing labs are non-functional. The shortage of qualified coding teachers compounds the issue, and there is a diminishing pool of matric learners with strong mathematical abilities - a critical prerequisite for coding.

Mandela University, through its Tangible Africa Programme, is addressing these challenges head-on. Launched in 2017, this initiative uses innovative methods to teach coding concepts, even in settings without access to computers, the internet, or electricity. Learners work collaboratively, solving challenges using physical puzzle pieces, thereby developing critical problem-solving skills.

The Tangible Africa Programme focuses on specific domains such as game poaching (RANGERS) and marine themes (BOATS), making coding education more engaging and accessible to diverse groups of students. New domains that will be introduced soon will be soccer and Formula 1 racing.

To date over 30000 teachers and other facilitators have been trained across Africa, and now also Europe. More than 100 000 learners benefitted from the programme, thanks to the collaboration with the Leva Foundation to address educational gaps and foster job creation and entrepreneurship.

"We are changing the African narrative. A product made in Africa for Africa is now being used in Africa and beyond," says Prof Greyling.

OUR HISTORY

The former institution was formed in 2005 as a result of the merging of the PE Technikon, the University of Port Elizabeth and the Port Elizabeth campus of Vista University (Vista PE).

The PE Technikon has its roots in the country's oldest art school, the PE Art School founded in 1882; the University of Port Elizabeth (UPE), the country's first dual-medium residential university, came into being on 31 January 1964; and the Port Elizabeth campus of Vista university, which opened up access to higher education for disadvantaged students.

The union of these institutions was part of countrywide restructuring of higher education, intended to deliver a more equitable and efficient system to meet the needs of South Africa, the continent and the world in the 21st century. Founded on more than a century of quality higher education, Nelson Mandela University nurtures innovation, fosters creativity, embraces technology and develops people to meet the challenges of tomorrow.

Today, Nelson Mandela University is the only university in the world to carry the name of Nelson Rolihlahla Mandela, is a sought-after educational destination and the most diverse university in South Africa.

A full history of the institution is available on our website, along with insights into our namesake.

Thesis:

EVALUATING THE SYSTEMS-BASED INTEGRATIVE PROPOSITIONAL ANALYSIS FOR POLICY DESIGN EFFECTIVENESS: A MULTIPLE CASE STUDY APPROACH

This study evaluates the Integrative Propositional Analysis (IPA) methodology as an additional tool for measuring the structural logic of policy for improving policy implementation effectiveness. Drawing on systems approaches; this work extends the influence of systems thinking and complexity theory to the study of policy content by measuring the systemicity of a policy's structural logic. Using a multiple case study method, the IPA is evaluated for its analytical value and the findings indicate a strong correlation between the systemicity score of the structural logic and the implementation outcomes. Additionally, it provides insights for practitioners of policy design in complex governance systems. This study provides recommendations for future research to test the analytical generalisations.

DIASPORA IN DIALOGUE: AN ONTOLOGY OF DIASPORIC SUBJECTIVITY IN THE WORK OF THREE ARTISTS LIVING IN-BETWEEN SOUTH AFRICA AND ZIMBABWE

This thesis explores the notion of “diasporic subjectivities” as a philosophical approach to understanding what it means to be in a complex contemporary reality. In it Vulindlela Nyoni unpacks a contention among both European and African existentialist philosophers that the condition of not being at home is the fundamental human condition out of which a home must be created. The groundlessness, liminality or in-betweenness is experienced not just by the diaspora but by all humans. He uses a hybrid research strategy of philosophical theorising, personal narrative, self-reflexive dialogue and artmaking to offer profound insights into the philosophical concepts of “belonging”, “home” and “nostalgia”. Through this, he creates an ontology of diasporic subjectivity. Then he uses this ontology to interpret and engage with the artmaking of three artists living in-between South Africa and Zimbabwe. The philosophical insight into the fundamentally diasporic human condition generated in this way makes an important contribution to decolonial African Philosophy.
